

SUSAN HUNTER HAMILTON GRAVES, age 55, of Little Rock, died Wednesday March 15, 1995. She was born in Fort Smith, Ark., and later graduated from Little Rock Central High School where, as a senior, she was co-editor of the Tiger school newspaper. She attended William Woods College in Fulton, Mo., and was a graduate of the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville with a degree in Home Economics. She was also a finalist in the Maid of Cotton Pageant in Memphis, a member of the Aesthetic Club of Little Rock, the Chi Omega Alumni, the National Society of Colonial Dames of America in the state of Arkansas, and a sustaining member of the Junior League of Little Rock.

Susan is survived by two daughters, Kimberly Graves of Conway, Ark., Christy Smith and her husband, Jeff, of Reno, Nev., one son, Scott Graves, and his wife, Melissa, of Colorado Springs, Colo., one brother, Scott D. Hamilton, Jr. of Honolulu, Hawaii; and one sister, Joanne H. Riddick of Little Rock.

Memorials may be made to the Arkansas Cancer Research Center, 4301 W. Markham St., University of Arkansas Medical Science Center, Little Rock.

There was a private graveside service Saturday. The family will be at 3304 Hill Road, the home of Joanne and Walter Riddick.
